The Board of Trustees meets on the third Wednesday evening of January, March, June, and October.

The Publication Committee meets on the first Sunday evening of January, February, March, October, November, and December.

1 Term expires in 1903.  2 Term expires in 1903.  3 Term expires in 1904.
The Annual Meeting of the Jewish Publication Society of America was held on Sunday afternoon, May 19, 1901, in the Assembly Room of the Keneseth Israel Temple, Broad Street above Columbia Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa.

In the absence of the President, Mr. Morris Newburger, on account of ill health, the Vice-President, Dr. Henry M. Leipziger, of New York, called the meeting to order.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman, of New York, offered prayer.

President's Address

The presiding officer read the address of the President of the Society, as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—This is a red letter day in the history of our Society. It seems but a short time since it was called into being, and as but yesterday when we celebrated its tenth anniversary. To-day it is Bar Mizvah; it is thirteen years old. No longer can we claim for it exemption from the consequences of deeds committed and deeds omitted; it has become a responsible being, responsible for all its actions, and the world will so hold it accountable. On you, the members of this Society, who make up its existence, you who are its bone and sinew, its flesh and its blood, a great responsibility falls this day.

The Society has undertaken great and noble tasks—the dissemination of the knowledge of Judaism, the creation of a

You are committed to these gigantic tasks, and on this important day you make a sacred vow to conscientiously and courageously dedicate yourselves to their fulfilment. To accomplish this purpose, you will make some sacrifices. Every one of you can, if you will, gain recruits for the Society; and to prove to you the urgency for such action, it is but necessary to tell you that though there are probably a million Jews in the United States, and that we have with the means at our command tried our best, the membership roll shows but five thousand, when there ought to be fifty thousand members.

The Society falls short of fulfilling its sacred mission until its publications shall be read in every Jewish household of this land. The price of membership has been made so very low in order that even the poorest of our coreligionists may be enabled to obtain the benefits of its work.

The new memberships during the year have been obtained chiefly in Philadelphia and in New York City, where our field-agent, Mrs. Scherman, has been at work. She is still continuing her canvass in the latter place, and we are hopeful from the large Jewish population that centres there, that we shall obtain many hundreds of members.

It is gratifying to note that among the new members there are many of the Russian Jewish population; and we have strong grounds for believing that this element of our community will continue to add to the Society's membership everywhere. With its growth in material prosperity, its love of learning will lead it to support an institution such as ours.

The report of the Board of Directors gives you the details of the year's work. I shall simply refer to a few salient features.
You have before you a proposed amendment to the by-laws, which will permit the publication of a magazine independent of the regular publications to be sent to members. This puts the matter which has so frequently been discussed into practical shape for action, for it is impossible to provide for a magazine from the regular subscription funds, under present conditions. I hope that the subject will be thoroughly discussed in all its aspects at this meeting, so that the Board of Directors and the Publication Committee may be guided by the thoughts expressed and the plans suggested. A prime consideration is, of course, the financial one, and any action that will make possible a separate magazine fund, will be the surest means toward the early publication of a magazine. True, there are many details which have to be worked out, but these may be left to the Board of Directors and the Publication Committee, though I am sure they will be glad to receive opinions and suggestions. Deliberate, therefore, as to a plan of action that will enable the Society to publish a Jewish magazine, which will be representative of Jewish culture and learning, and will be a valuable supplement to our regular publications in the spread of Jewish knowledge.

A magazine takes into consideration the current of events and of thought, and quickly places them before its readers. There is much in the world about us to be described from the Jewish point of view. There are Jewish problems, for the discussion of which an American-Jewish magazine is the proper vehicle. A first-class Jewish monthly, bi-monthly, or quarterly periodical is assuredly a great desideratum for American Jews; and I sincerely hope the Jewish Publication Society may be made the medium of its establishment.

One of the disappointments which I have experienced, with many of our readers, is our inability to secure and publish high class Jewish fiction from year to year. Zangwill has declared fiction to be the highest form of truth, but it must perforce be artistic. This most talented writer has taught us some great truths in his magnificent description of the “Children of the Ghetto.” But there are other stories waiting to be told, and we are waiting to publish them. We shall be satisfied with lesser Zangwills. We should particularly like to publish stories which would make our own country their scenes or background, or which would bring in features of Jewish life as developed under American conditions.

We are still looking for writers from our midst, and there are indications that we are not looking altogether in vain. I feel hopeful that this Society will publish the works of some young writers who are giving evidence of talent. We may, at the same time, continue to draw upon the work of English and Continental writers. I have been impressed with some of the German works of Jewish fiction, and should be glad to see this Society publish the productions of some of their authors.

I have been led to dwell on this subject, because I understand how much more good fiction appeals to the reader than any other sort of literature. But having expressed myself thus, I feel bound to ask the members to try to appreciate the value of the other kind of literature we are sending them.

The last Year Book, thanks to Doctor Cyrus Adler, was one of the most valuable compilations of facts concerning the Jews in this country that has ever been published. It shows a large development along educational, charitable, and religious lines. If some of the members who ask, “What shall
I do with it?" would take a little time to study its contents; they might learn a little of the activity of their brethren; they might understand that the progress of the Jewish people depends on communal efforts, as well as on the efforts of the individuals in their locations.

It is very gratifying to me to be able to report that the Translation of the Bible is progressing very satisfactorily; so much so, in fact, that some parts of it will be ready for publication in the near future. Active measures must be taken to raise the money necessary for the work, and I trust that a liberal response will follow this appeal for funds. This great work—an English Bible translated by the ablest Jewish scholars—is an epoch-making event; and I feel that every Jew in the United States is vitally interested in this undertaking.

I desire to express my appreciation of the work of the Board of Trustees, the Publication Committee, and the Treasurer. The results of their labors are before you. Only those who are associated with them in their work can fully appreciate the tasks they are performing and the services they render to the Society; and I, therefore, take much pleasure in making this public acknowledgment. I also wish to give due credit to the valuable work which our Secretaries, Miss Szold and Dr. Bernheimer, are doing for the Society, and to express my appreciation of the services of our field-agent, Mrs. Kate Scherman.

Laymen throughout the country, many of the Rabbis, and a number of newspapers and periodicals, Jewish and non-Jewish, are deserving of our cordial thanks for giving publicity to the Society's work and for assistance in various ways.

As usual, you are to elect a president, a vice-president, and a second vice-president, each for one year; five directors and five honorary vice-presidents, each for three years. The Board of Directors elects the other officers and the Publication Committee. Be careful in your selection. It is important that only those shall fill the positions now vacant who have the Society's best interests at heart, and who are able and willing to labor for its welfare.

A more able and much more eloquent speaker will later on address you in relation to the affairs of the Society. I, therefore, close my address, hoping—and I believe not hoping in vain—that you will leave this meeting-place fully impressed with the fact that our Society is one of the greatest Jewish educational institutions in the world; that its purposes are unselfish, high, and noble; that it has proven its raison d'etre by its continuance far beyond the time attained by any previous similar institution; and it will continue to grow and to live, until, through its instrumentality, all the world will have learned the eternal truths of Judaism.

Organization of the Meeting

Nominations for Chairman of the meeting being declared in order, Mr. Herman S. Friedman, of Philadelphia, nominated Dr. Henry M. Leipziger, of New York.

Mr. Wm. B. Hackenburg, of Philadelphia, put the motion, and Dr. Leipziger was unanimously elected Chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Friedman nominated Dr. Charles S. Bernheimer, of Philadelphia, as Secretary of the meeting, and he was unanimously chosen for the office.

Report of the Board of Directors

The Annual Report of the Board of Directors being presented in printed form for distribution, its reading was dispensed with.
The report is as follows:

The Jewish Publication Society of America has now concluded its thirteenth year.

Immediately after last year's meeting, in May, 1900, the Board of Directors elected the following officers: Treasurer, Morris Dannenbaum, of Philadelphia; Secretary, Lewis W. Steinbach, of Philadelphia; Assistant Secretary, Charles S. Bernheimer, of Philadelphia; Secretary to the Publication Committee, Henrietta Szold, of Baltimore. The following were chosen members of the Publication Committee: Mayer Sulzberger, of Philadelphia; Cyrus Adler, of Washington, D. C.; David W. Amram, of Philadelphia; Henry Berkowitz, of Philadelphia; Solomon Solis-Cohen, of Philadelphia; B. Felsenthal, of Chicago; Herbert Friedenwald, of Philadelphia; Charles Gross, of Cambridge, Massachusetts; Marcus Jastrow, of Philadelphia; Max Landsberg, of Rochester, N. Y.; Henry M. Leipziger, of New York; David Philipson, of Cincinnati; Samuel Sale, of St. Louis; Simon A. Stern, of Philadelphia; and Oscar S. Straus, of New York. The committee elected Mayer Sulzberger as its chairman.

PERMANENT FUND

The sum of $3 has been added to the Permanent Fund since the last report. The Fund now amounts to $17,104.50, as follows:

Michael Heilprin Memorial Fund:
- Donation of Jacob H. Schiff ................ $5,000
- Donation of Meyer Guggenheim ............ 5,000
  _______________ $10,000 00

Morton M. Newburger Memorial Fund .................. 500 00
Bequest of J. D. Bernd ................................ 500 00
Donations ................................................. 104 50
Life Membership Fund ................................. 5,900 00
Bequest (Lucien Moss) ................................ 100 00

__________________________ $17,104 50
No one has, during the year, availed himself of the opportunity of adding to this Fund by means of bequest or life membership. We are hopeful, however, that the desirability of increasing the stability of the Society by additions to the Fund will impress itself on the community, and that those in a position to make such contributions will not fail to include the Society among their beneficiaries.

Included in the above are 390 members whose dues remain unpaid for the year ending June 1, 1900, and who have not received the publications of the year ending June 1, 1901. They will be omitted from the roll of membership, if their dues are not paid forthwith. There are also included in the foregoing list 185 members whose resignations take effect June 1, 1901, and 66 members whose subscriptions begin June 1, 1901.

If the membership is assumed to be 5081, there is an increase of 42 over the membership reported last year.

There is, it will be observed, no material increase in the membership. Our energetic field-agent, Mrs. K. H. Scher- man, who works steadily to obtain new members, has measurable success, but the losses by lapses, resignations, and deaths nearly equal the new acquisitions.

During the past year, the agent has been canvassing chiefly in Philadelphia and New York City, and she is still in the latter city. In both communities considerable additions to the membership have been made, and it is hoped that New York City, with its great Jewish population, will furnish a large membership before the present canvass is completed.

A good proportion of the new membership in the two cities has been from among the immigrants of the last twenty years, whose children are now beginning to need the English language for instruction in Jewish literature and affairs. The support from this large and important element of the population is of the utmost significance, and it is hoped that within comparatively few years it will so grow as to largely expand the Society's power for good work.

Though our special attention has been directed to strengthening the membership in the East, the distribution throughout the country is pretty well maintained, as is shown by the tabulation by cities and towns.

Publications

The following publications have been issued since the last meeting:

3. Songs of Exile, translated from Hebrew poets by Nina Davis.
4. The Ethics of Judaism, Part II, by Professor Moritz Lazarus, translated from the German by Henrietta Szold.

We shall again issue a Year Book, for the forthcoming New Year. It will contain new material of current interest. Other publications that are being made ready for the press are the Book of Psalms, which will be the first product of our undertaking in the translation of the Bible, and a collection of essays by Mrs. Esther J. Ruskay.

We are in negotiation with writers for literature of various kinds—fiction, essays, scholarly studies—and are hopeful that the books issued will, as in the past, appeal to the various classes of readers among our members.

Upwards of 160,000 volumes have been sent out by the Society.
THE BIBLE TRANSLATION

The Psalms are now completely revised and ready for print. Some of the other portions of the Bible are ready for the final revision of the Style Editor. A number have been sent in to the Editor-in-chief by the translators, and are in varying states of revision. There are also a number still in the hands of the translators. The work is thus progressing, slowly but steadily, and parts can be gotten ready for publication, from time to time, as may be decided.

The Bible Fund is not growing. But $25 has been added since the last report, making the total subscribed $3755. With the approaching publication of the Psalms, the work of obtaining subscriptions to the Fund ought to be stimulated.

We trust that the generous friends of Jewish learning and scholarship will be moved by this practical evidence of our labors to renewed efforts to add to the Fund, so that the undertaking shall in no way be hampered. For the production of the complete Bible it has been estimated that the sum of $25,000 will be required.

THE JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA

It is a great pleasure to record an event of the highest interest to the members of this Society, which has for the last twelve years been engaged in the work of producing Jewish literature in the English language. This noteworthy fact is the publication, this month, of the first volume of the great Jewish Encyclopedia of the Funk & Wagnalls Company, of New York. It is the first of a series of twelve volumes, which, when completed, will be a descriptive record of the history, religion, literature, and customs of the Jewish people from the earliest times to the present day. Four hundred scholars and specialists, the notables of America and Europe, join in producing the work.

A glance at the first volume is most interesting. Hundreds of subjects are discussed in it with surprising learning and thoroughness, and yet in a plain and lucid style attractive to the many. Authors, painters, sculptors, men of affairs, events, movements, opinions, philosophies, sciences—all are treated. Times so old as to be beyond history and events of our own day are equally considered. In short, the man who is not a scholar will be astonished to see how large a proportion of the articles interest him, while he that has grown old in scholarship may be surprised to discover how much he can learn from this great cooperative work.

The treatment of Biblical subjects is novel and of the highest merit. There are generally three or four points of view. First we have a purely Biblical presentation which treats the subject strictly from the Bible side. Then all the learning of the Rabbinical literature is presented, and this is followed by the views of the modern critical school. Moreover these views are not set forth by any one man. Such a presentation might justify the suspicion of favoritism for one view and prejudice against the others. Each view is represented by an expert therein. We have thus before us for the first time and in compact shape the thought of the Bible itself, the views of the Jews on it from the close of the canon to our own day, and the critical views of the New School. To those who aim to study the Bible understandingly such a help as this is indispensable.

It is probable that the biographical notices of Jewish worthies have a more general human interest than things that might seem more important. So rich a supply of such matter has never before been furnished.

The mechanical portion of the work is especially to be commended. The paper, the ink, the printing, the illustrations are all of the highest order of excellence.

It is a noteworthy circumstance that this colossal enterprise, entailing, it is said, an outlay of three-quarters of a million of dollars, is undertaken by a firm not one of whose members is a Jew. The truth of history requires us to record that when Dr. Singer, the projector, laid his plans before our Society, we were compelled to declare that we could not command the means to undertake so great a work.

The situation in America presents a curious parallel to the beginnings of the great Jewish press of Italy. From 1475 on, when the first Hebrew book was printed at Reggio, in Calabria, the Jews of that country (especially the great printing family of Soncino) produced valuable works.

At the end of what may be called the first period, namely in 1517, a new epoch for Hebrew printing began by the entry of Christians into the business. The first and greatest of these was Daniel Bomberg, a native of Antwerp, who came to Venice, and in the year 1517 began to print the remarkable series of Hebrew books which issued from his press, among them the three great Rabbinical Bibles of 1517, 1526, and 1548, the three quarto Bibles of 1518, 1521, and 1544, the first edition of the Palestinian Talmud and the first complete edition of the Babylonian Talmud, together with a large number of other Hebrew books of many kinds.

Thenceforward and even to this day, notwithstanding the persecutions and the burning of books, Italy has continued to bear fruitful Jewish presses.
The Jewish press of America has hitherto, in its first epoch, developed promising activity, but it is not extravagant to hope that its second epoch, so auspiciously inaugurated by our American Bomberg, the Funk-Wagnalls Company, will far transcend the work of the first.

AMENDMENT TO THE BY-LAWS

An amendment to Article VI of the By-Laws is proposed. The article now reads:

"Every member of the Society shall receive a copy of each of its publications. Contributing societies shall receive a number of copies of said publications proportionate to the amount of their annual subscriptions."

It is proposed to add:

"Provided, however, that the Society may, for a separate subscription price, publish a monthly or quarterly magazine, which the members shall receive at half rate."

The purpose of this amendment is to enable the Society to make provision for the publication of a magazine on a basis distinct from the publication of its other works. This seems to be necessary, because the establishment and maintenance of a magazine involves the securing of funds apart from the membership funds of the Society, and the most available means of obtaining them would appear to be from those who desire to be the readers of the magazine.

Respectfully submitted by the Board of Directors,

MORRIS NEWBURGER,

ADDRESS OF MR. DANIEL P. HAYS

Mr. Daniel P. Hays, of New York, delivered an address, as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—The Jewish Publication Society has now been before the public for thirteen years. Like many other movements for the education and intellectual advancement of our people, it has not received the encouragement it deserves. And yet, despite this fact, it has met with a fair measure of success.
It has placed within the reach of all the most philosophical and complete history of our people ever written—a book which may be said to throw the light of truth upon the dark epochs of our past, and to reveal the real life, impulses, and strivings of the Jewish race, as they existed in the days which it describes.

It is this work which, as is so well stated in the memoir of the author contained in the Index Volume, has demonstrated to the world that Judaism did not fulfil its mission by having begotten Christianity, but that it continued to develop its monotheistic doctrines and its ethical system, undisturbed by the loss of a national background, and borne onward only by virtue of its spirituality and ideality, producing thinkers, poets, and even statesmen, despite untold suffering, and contributing zealously to the solution of the problems of human civilization; uprooted and dispersed though its adherents were. The Society has also given its members an insight into Jewish literature, which was hitherto only the treasure of the scholar and the student; it has acquainted them with Jewish ethics; it has given them a better understanding of the nature of that much misunderstood book, the Talmud, and it has opened their eyes to the possibilities of Jewish fiction by the many charming publications it has issued in that field. In all these directions, it has bestowed innumerable benefits upon the Jews of to-day.

That it has supplied a needed want cannot be gainsaid.

In a retrospect of the history of the Jewish people, we find that in the earliest or Biblical period they stood pre-eminently before the world as the teachers of monotheism. They gave to the world a spiritual conception of the Deity, and a code of moral laws which has impressed itself upon all succeeding civilized nations.
In later days their Prophets further idealized the teachings, and raised the religious beliefs to a still higher ethical and moral level.

After the dispersion they devoted themselves to intellectual development, and pursued it with that same persistency, intensity, and success which have been marked characteristics of the race in whatever it has undertaken.

When their schools were broken up as a result of bitter persecution and intolerance, they still found refuge from their worldly griefs, in the study of the law, and the practice of their religious faith.

But denied as they were all the rights of freemen, hunted and hooted at as outcasts, debarred from all honorable pursuits, their minds became as narrow as the limits of the ghetto in which they lived, and their bodies, in many cases, stunted and weakened, as the plant from which God's blessed sunshine is shut out. The many beautiful, spiritual and ethical principles of Judaism were buried and lost sight of beneath a mass of technical ritualism and formal ceremonial.

At last the walls of the ghetto were broken down by the advancing tide of civilization, and the Jew, coming forth from his long imprisonment, found himself upon the broad open field of life, with no road barred to him.

Dazed by the sunshine of freedom, to which he had so long been unaccustomed, it took him a little while to adjust himself to his new surroundings, and to realize the changed conditions. But he soon began to avail himself of the new opportunities. A new world, where "man's equality" had been proclaimed and established at a great sacrifice of noble lives, beckoned to him, and offered him a friendly greeting.

He eagerly accepted the invitation, and found there a vent for the pent up activities of years. With industry, economy, thrift, and ability, as his contribution of capital to the business enterprises of his new home, he soon began to reap substantial rewards. He divided honors with his fellow-men in mercantile pursuits, law, medicine, and in the arts and sciences. But a new danger confronted him. He was making strides toward material prosperity at the expense of his spiritual life. How had this come about? He had found it difficult to accommodate the Eastern forms, ceremonies, and injunctions as to his religious life to the new environment. So he began to cut and prune, in many cases with so reckless a hand that he sapped the life blood, and the religious tree withered and died. He continued to be a Jew in the racial sense and, as he thought, in the religious sense, by an observance of the two great holidays yearly. He could not stop in the race for wealth to observe his Sabbath, or practice the other tenets of his faith. Some of his fellows might outdistance him, if he did. He forgot for the time being that while such an observance of religion might satisfy him, it could not appeal to his children—to the new generation. The roots of his faith ran deep into the past, where they were nourished and fed by his early training and education. His children had no such anchorage. They had not become imbued with the spirit of Judaism in the home, and they knew but little of the history of their race.

Modern educational requirements did not give these things a place in the curriculum. They looked on, amazed, for a time at the terrible conflict waged by their elders, and were soon themselves eagerly engaged in the conflict between orthodoxy and reform. Was Judaism merely a question of form and ceremony? It seemed so to them, else why so fierce a struggle for their maintenance or abolition. They were not imbued with the spirit of their faith, or grounded in its history, tradition, or literature.

It was patent to many thinking minds that something must be done to avert the catastrophe that was pending, to awaken an interest among the rising generation in Judaism, and to brush aside the clouds of darkness and obscurity in which it had been veiled. They felt satisfied that the apathy and discontent so rapidly spreading among our people in this country would be removed, if once they were educated in the history and literature of their past.

Doubting and scoffing were the result of ignorance and a consequent misunderstanding of the relative value of forms and ceremonies to religious life.

The latter half of the century just past saw, therefore, many educational movements started, as an offset to this condition of affairs. The City of Philadelphia has led in this, as in all movements for the intellectual development of the Jew. Young Men's Hebrew Associations, Libraries, the Jewish Publication Society, and the Jewish Chautauqua movement, the Jewish Historical Society, and the Judæans, are all efforts in this direction.

Nor am I unduly praising this Association when I say that its work is wider reaching than that of any of its sister societies, and at the same time it is their most valuable adjunct. Its work is accomplished silently, and without any apparent effort, and the community unconsciously, as it were, receives the benefits.

Its members are asked to do nothing, to give up no time or effort, but for the small sum of $3 a year to become its beneficiaries.
The books it issues go into thousands of Jewish homes—in some cases to be read with avidity, but in many others perhaps only to grace the shelves with their red bindings, and by their refulgence to cast at least an apparent literary atmosphere about the home. But there they stand, as silent monitors of the Society's work, until in some moment of idle curiosity some member of the family is tempted to peep beyond the gorgeous covers, and then perchance the spell is broken, interest is awakened, and the purpose of the Society is accomplished.

Or where our printed messengers have been mute upon the shelves, the Jewish Chautauqua comes along with its message for the uplifting of the race, succeeds in stimulating a desire for knowledge, and points the way to the new aspirant, by teaching him to utilize what has hitherto been but an ornament to his walls.

We have lately grown to more fully appreciate the great utility of libraries in educational work among the masses. But there we always have the problem of the selection of books suited to the condition and character of the reader. The Jewish Publication Society solves this problem also. It selects from the storehouse of knowledge those treasures best suited to the education of the present generation in the field of Jewish history and literature, and without waiting for the reader to call for them, places them in his home, thus enlisting his attention and giving him the opportunity which, without the Society, he would miss.

That these advantages have reached only about five thousand of our people is not the fault of the Society, nor has it discouraged its officers. It is a large membership compared with that of many other Societies, and yet, considering the small admission fee charged, and the fact that an appeal is made to over a million of our coreligionists, it cannot but be a matter of surprise that so few have enrolled themselves among its supporters. Appeals for material assistance for the poor, the suffering, and the fatherless have always met with a ready response.

It is not so, as I have previously remarked, with efforts tending to intellectual development where neither the need, nor the results accomplished, are so patent to the ordinary eye. It behooves us, therefore, who appreciate the importance and necessity of such work, to be all the more diligent and energetic in our efforts, to the end that a greater number of our race may be benefited.

There has been, during the past ten years, a great awakening among our people—a realization that the Jew is not to become great by his material achievements, but by his contribution toward the higher ideals of life and by his endeavors toward the uplifting of the race. Wealth and station are not to be despised, but we are learning to give them their proper place in life, and to understand that they are not stepping-stones to the Kingdom of Heaven. Orthodoxy and Reform no longer waste their energies in hurling epithets at each other, or in engaging in fierce conflicts. Each realizes the work it has to perform in its own field, and bends all its energies to accomplish it. Instead of working on broadly divergent lines, we are steadily converging the lines of work toward each other, and in such fields as the Jewish Publication Society we find them united for a common end.

In the accomplishment of these changes the Jewish Publication Society has been no small factor. It has by means of its publications sown the seed of enlightenment and knowledge in many hitherto barren places, and is therefore entitled to its full share of credit for the harvest that is being gathered. Knowledge is the torch that lights the world—the material as well as the religious. The Jew has ever been eager to hold that torch high above his head, though often prevented from doing so by the religious intolerance of the age. Now that no such obstacle exists, let it be our work to place it once more in his hands, and then to continue the march, casting light upon the dark and troubled portions of the past. Let it be our duty to place our people before the world in their true character, to put the blame for our regression where it belongs, to reveal the true beauty and glory of Judaism, by giving its ethical and moral lessons to the world and trying to practice them in our daily lives. Herein lies the work of the Jewish Publication Society—spreading knowledge that light may follow in its path—light that will reveal not only to the Jew, but to the world, the true beauty of Judaism; its lofty and spiritual conception of the Deity; its broad and universal application; its uplifting and moral influence; its reverence for the sanctity of home and family life; its aspirations for the brotherhood of man.

It is in line with this work that the Society has undertaken to issue a new translation of the Bible—that greatest of all books, which contains the earliest records of our race and describes the birth and development of our religion. Its poetry, its imagery, its lofty sentiments, its unequalled style, its pathos, its tenderness, its grandeur, have given it the highest place in the world’s literature, without regard to its sacred character. Christianity regards it with the most tender reverence and draws from it inspiration and hope. How much more forcibly should it appeal to the Jew! It contains his family pedigree and history, by which he can trace his genealogy back to the known beginning of the world. It describes the revelations of God to his forefathers, and transmits to future generations a code of moral and religious precepts that have been universally accepted. It preaches the loftiest ideals of life, and voices the noblest sentiments of our higher natures. It furnishes consolation in time of trouble and grief, and sounds the most joyous notes for periods of happiness and festivity.

Such a book should be in every Jewish home, to be read daily by parent and child. Its treasures should be within the reach of all—strengthening their faith, inspiring their hope, increasing their knowledge.

To make this possible is the aim of the Jewish Publication
Society by publishing it at a nominal cost.

It requires financial assistance for this work. Let it be the pride of the members of this Society that they contributed to such a result.

Let them go forth from this meeting with the determination to assist in the early realization of this ideal, by securing that material support without which such an undertaking can never be accomplished.

The Jewish Encyclopedia

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Maurice H. Harris, of New York, it was agreed that the Society congratulate the editors and publishers of the Jewish Encyclopedia, upon the appearance of the first volume.

Dr. Isidore Singer, of New York, Managing Editor of the Encyclopedia, made acknowledgment of the motion.
COMMITTEES APPOINTED

The Chairman appointed the following committees:

On Nominations: Mr. Wm. B. Hackenburg, of Philadelphia, Chairman; Mr. Morris Liveright, of Philadelphia; and Mr. Emil Selig, of Philadelphia.

On the Part of the Report of the Board of Directors relating to Permanent Fund: Mr. Jacob Singer, of Philadelphia, Chairman; Mr. I. B. Langstadter, of Philadelphia; and Mr. Adolph Eichholz, of Philadelphia.

On the Part of the Report of the Board of Directors relating to Membership: Mr. Louis Wolf, of Philadelphia, Chairman; Mr. David Sulzberger, of Philadelphia; and Mr. Lawrence Marks, of Philadelphia.

On the Part of the Report of the Board of Directors relating to Publications: Rev. Dr. Maurice H. Harris, of New York, Chairman; Dr. Isidore Singer, of New York; and Rev. Dr. Wm. Rosenau, of Baltimore.

On the Part of the Report of the Board of Directors relating to Bible Fund: Mr. Philip Cowen, of New York, Chairman; Mr. Wm. Gerstley, of Philadelphia; and Rev. Clifton H. Levy, of New York.

A recess was then taken.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Committee on Nominations presented the following names:

Directors, for three years: Edwin A. Fleisher, of Philadelphia; Daniel Guggenheim, of New York; Ephraim Lederer, of Philadelphia; Simon Miller, of Philadelphia; Harris Weinstein, of Sacramento, Cal.
President, for one year, Morris Newburger, of Philadelphia.
Vice-President, for one year, Henry M. Leipziger, of New York.
Second Vice-President, for one year, Herman S. Friedman, of Philadelphia.
Honorary Vice-Presidents, for three years: Jacob Haas, of Atlanta, Ga.; Max Heller, of New Orleans, La.; Ella Jacobs, of Philadelphia; Simon W. Rosendale, of Albany, N. Y.; Joseph Stolz, of Chicago.

On motion, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous ballot of the meeting for the nominees, and they were declared duly elected.

PERMANENT FUND

The Committee on the Part of the Report relating to Permanent Fund made the following report:

We regret to note that little or no progress as to the increase of the Permanent Fund of the Society is noticeable during the past year.

We are, however, of the opinion that continued efforts along the lines established at last year's Annual Meeting should be put forth and persisted in, and with the growth and usefulness of the Society they will inevitably result in accomplishing the object.

We recommend that along with each publication there be sent a printed blank form of bequest of a legacy to the Society for its Permanent Fund, and furthermore a printed notice calling attention to the fact that proceeds of life memberships go into said Fund.

We further recommend, in view of the interest manifested in the work of the Society by a large number of the legal fraternity throughout the United States, that the Trustees be requested to communicate with the lawyers of the Jewish faith in the several States, requesting them to call to the attention of those about to make testamentary disposition of their estates, the needs, objects, aims, and achievements of the Jewish Publication Society, and secure bequests and legacies if possible.

We believe that active propaganda in these and such other directions as may be decided upon by the Trustees will eventually enforce the recognition of the importance of this Fund to the permanence and stability of the Society and its great mission.

On motion, the report was adopted.

Bible Fund

The Committee on the Part of the Report relating to Bible Fund submitted the following:

It is their opinion that the slow growth of the Bible Fund is due somewhat to the delay in presenting to the members any tangible evidence of the progress of the work.

Hence, they recommend the early publication of the Psalms, which, they understand, are already in shape for printing; that, when done, the work shall be placed on the market at a moderate price, after the members have been supplied; that the large sale following the publication, if the form, shape, and price be satisfactory, is likely to yield a sufficient sum, judging from experience with similar publications, to help materially in bringing means towards continuing further the great and needful work that the Society has undertaken in translating the Bible.
The Committee further suggest that the publication of the Psalms be followed up with special efforts to enlist the financial support of those of our people who appreciate the value of the work, believing, as they do, that the appearance of this initial volume will stimulate such subscriptions.

The report was, on motion, adopted.

Membership

The Committee on the Part of the Report relating to Membership stated:

The Committee on Membership report that it is their opinion that if a proper committee were appointed by the Board of Directors to solicit membership, a large increase could be obtained, especially at this period, in view of the publication of the Bible; that it is their opinion that additional canvassers should be obtained. Judging by the excellent result of the work done by the solicitor now employed, it would, no doubt, be the means of largely increasing the membership of the Society.

The report was discussed by Mr. David Sulzberger, of Philadelphia, Mr. Philip Cowen, of New York, and Dr. Isidore Singer, of New York.

Mr. Cowen suggested the substitution of a volume of Graetz’s "History of the Jews" for one of the other volumes of a current year, whenever members so desire.

The report was, on motion, adopted.

Publications

The Committee on the Part of the Report relating to Publications reported as follows:
The Committee are pleased to learn that separate books of the Bible will be issued in the near future. But they earnestly suggest the desirability and the practical advantage of printing with each Bible-book a comprehensive introduction and a short commentary in the form of notes, embodying the results, not only of modern criticism, but also of Rabbinic exegesis. Such a commentary will give it added value, and will make it sought by Christian as well as by Jewish scholars.

The Committee gladly endorse the choice of works thus far issued. They would, however, suggest, as the policy of the future, that the Society give less and less of its attention to the issuing or translation of such works as do not appeal to the Jewish public at large, on account of their scientific character. The aim of the Publication Society should ever be the education of the people.

Mr. Charles Hoffman, of Philadelphia, moved to insert in the report that the Society publish standard works in place of the phrase suggesting the publication of popular works.

The amendment was lost, and on motion the report was adopted as submitted.

Amendment to By-Laws

An Amendment to Article VI of the By-Laws was proposed. The article now reads: "Every member of the Society shall receive a copy of its publications. Contributing societies shall receive a number of copies of said publications proportionate to the amount of their annual subscriptions."

It was proposed to add: "Provided, however, that the Society may, for a separate subscription price, publish a monthly or quarterly magazine, which the members shall receive at half-rate."
The section of the President’s address referring to the proposition was read, and the amendment was discussed by the Rev. Clifton H. Levy, Mr. Daniel P. Hays, Dr. Isidore Singer, Mr. David Sulzberger, Mr. Philip Cowen, Hon. Mayer Sulzberger, and Mr. Herman S. Friedman.

On motion of Mr. Friedman, the amendment was laid on the table.

Mr. David Sulzberger moved the thanks of the meeting to the Temple Keneseth Israel for the use of the Assembly Room. Unanimously agreed to.

On motion, the meeting adjourned.

C. S. Bernheimer, Secretary.
