Jewish Population in the United States

THE DATA carried in the tables below have not been updated from the previous year.

Preliminary data indicated that few major changes in the larger community population estimates were to be expected. There also were no new estimates from the National United Jewish Appeal for the smaller communities.

It is expected that we will have total and regional estimates for the United States Jewish population in 1971. These will be derived from the national Jewish population study that is being conducted currently under the auspices of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. A thorough revision of the individual community and state estimates will be made next year, using the national estimates as a reference point.

^b These data are for July 1, 1968 and represent estimates of the total resident population of each state. Members of the armed forces abroad are excluded. There is therefore a slight difference between these data and the estimates for the Jewish population since most estimates of the latter include persons in the armed forces by civilian residence rather than by military residence.

^c Total U.S. population, including Armed Forces abroad, was 201,166,000.

The areas covered by the population estimates in Appendix Table 3 do not uniquely fit into any one of these census definitions. The Jewish estimates are based upon the service and campaign areas of Jewish federations, and these show wide variations. Mostly, but with many exceptions, the areas in appended Table 3 would be closest in concept to urbanized area. Specific information about the area covered by a particular estimate can often be obtained by writing directly to the appropriate federation. (See "Jewish Federations, Welfare Funds, Community Councils, p. 000.)
